Judge Jackson Dead--Judge Morrow's Lyon County Prospects--Sims' in a Corner--Hot City Election.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Aug. 10, '95.--To the Democrats of Lyon county: I see and read a great many things about the circuit judge's race as between Judge Linn and Judge Morrow; who this county will give a majority and who that county will give a majority, and especially old Lyon county. I have been a pretty close observer of the Democracy of Lyon county since Hon. Thos. J. Morrow received the requisite number of votes in the convention assembled at Eddyville, Ky., on July 11th, 1895, to nominate a candidate for circuit judge of this judicial district, but alas, as is too often the case, was counted out.

I am here to say to you, stand to Judge Morrow, go to the polls on the 31st of Aug., every mother's son of you, cast your vote for Judge Morrow and against rings, cliques and combinations. I am here to say to you that Judge Morrow will carry Lyon county by a handsome majority. He will carry it by the vote of the horny-handed Democrats of the county. The mechanics are for him, the farmers are for him. He is not backed by any ring, clique, or combination in this county. We know Tom Morrow, we know that he was raised on a farm; we know he will make us a good judge, and by the eternal we will elect him. We are for him because he won the nomination and deserves it. We are for him because he is a Democrat. We are for him because he is an honest, upright citizen, lawyer and farmer, and can beat any Republican in this district.

We are not for Judge Linn because he is backed by all the rings, cliques and combinations and banks in Lyon county. We have our court house ring and clique headed by a small knobby-headed editor. In its own estimation as broad as a Tammany Tiger. We have corporations, penitentiary and two banks in our county backing Judge Linn.

Democrats, what are you fighting? Is it not rings and cliques? Is it not combinations and monopolies? Must we sit still and let such corporations as the penitentiary gang and 16 or 18 state hirelings at the penitentiary shape our political destinies for us and dictate to us who we shall vote for? No, our answer on the 31st day of August must be no. They have no interest in common with us. In twelve months they will be scattered to the four winds of the earth.

Judge Linn is a nice, clever gentleman and personally we like him, but we owe Calloway county nothing. She has never shown Lyon county any favors, she has always refused to support a Lyon county man. If we remember right, at one time several years ago, we offered our fellow townsman and friend, Gen. H. B. Lyon, as a candidate for the state senate. And still later, when our own county man, Hon. W. J. Stone went down in defeat by about 1,050 votes including Republicans, carpet-baggers, rings, cliques, combinations and monopolies, where do we find Calloway county? Did she come to our rescue? Lo and behold what did we find? When the county of Calloway was called she rolled up a majority of about 500 against the Captain, enough to have changed the result and made the Captain the nominee. Do you think we owe her any favor for that? Certainly not. Still later, only a few days ago, we offered them a candidate for the state senate from Lyon, Dr. G. W. Williams, as good as to spare a Democrat as we breathed the breath of life. Calloway gave him only 65 votes; now in the face of all this, we find them crying out, vote for Judge Linn of Calloway. We never forgot about asking Calloway to support Hon. W. J. Stone for temporary chairman at the state convention, a few weeks ago, when eleven votes would have decided the result and Calloway refused to support him. Vote for Judge Linn, no, when the roll is called you will find us in line and the final result will be a majority and victory for Tom Morrow. DEMOCRAT.

Simeon Ray Winner.

In the senatorial primary in the Trigg district Col. Fenton Sims won an easy victory, notwithstanding the fact that Livingston cast nearly all of its vote for Judge Thos. P. Cook, although he was not a candidate. This was intended as a personal compliment from the friends of Congressmen Hendricks for Judge Cook's support in 1894. The vote by counties was as follows:

| | Sims. | Williams. | Cook. |
|------------|-------|-----------|-------|
| Calloway | 50 | 50 | 450 |
| Livingston | 25 | 50 | |
| Lyon | 50 | 50 | |
| Trigg | 415 | 50 | |
| | 1063 | 497 | 450 |

JUDGE JACKSON DEAD.

The Trip to Washington Hastened the End But the Great Jurist Hastened Not NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 8.--The Hon. Howell Edmunds Jackson, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, died at his residence at West Meade, six miles west of this city at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the 64th year of his age. Judge Jackson had been in failing health for the past four years, but it has been only in the past eight or nine months that the progress of disease began to cause his family and friends uneasiness. Last year he went on a lengthy trip to the far West in search of health. Later he went to Thomasville, Ga., where it was hoped the mild and yet bracing climate would restore his one-time vigorous constitution. The trip did him little good, and after time he was brought home. At his old home, and surrounded by the scenes he loved so well Judge Jackson seemed to improve steadily until he went to Washington to sit in the second hearing of the income tax cases. He stood that trying trip only fairly well, and after his return home appeared to lose strength rapidly. Nevertheless, Judge Jackson never took to his bed until last Wednesday a week. Since that time his family and friends realized that the end was near, and his death yesterday was not unexpected.

Judge Jackson was twice married, the first time to Miss Sophia Malloy, daughter of David E. Malloy, a banker, of Memphis, who died in 1873. To this union were born four children, as follows: Henry, Mary, William H. and Howell Jackson. Henry Jackson is at present Soliciting Freight Agent of the Southern Railway, with headquarters at Atlanta. W. H. Jackson, Jr., is District Attorney of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway at Cincinnati.

Howell E. Jackson is manager of the Jackson Cotton Mills at Jackson, Tenn. In 1876 Judge Jackson married Miss Mary E. Harding, daughter of the late Gen. Wm. G. Harding. Of this union three children survive--Misses Elizabeth and Louise Jackson and Harding A. Jackson. With the exception of Miss Elizabeth Jackson and Wm. H. Jackson, Jr., who are in Europe, the children were at the bedside when the distinguished sufferer passed away.

The news of Judge Jackson's death caused general sorrow in the city where he was so well known and admired.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been fully completed, but it is known that it will take place next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Judge Jackson was elected to the lower house of the Forty-second General Assembly from Madison County in 1880, and by that assembly elected to the United States Senate.

On the 12th of April, 1886, he was nominated by President Cleveland to be Circuit Judge of the United States for the Sixth Judicial Circuit, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the Hon. John Baxter.

On Feb. 2, 1894 Judge Jackson was nominated by President Harrison to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, vice L. Q. C. Lamar, deceased.

FOR CHARITY

A Grand Entertainment--The Kirmess. Aug. 19 and 20.

Misses Rousseau and Blocker, who came with high testimonials, the former a graduate of the Delmar school and are now rehearsing for the Kirmess to be given at the Opera house, Aug. 19th and 20th, have made a most generous offer, which will allow the charity treasury to be increased with little or no trouble beyond those who take an active part--the patronage of the public being the main point. This however is assured, if one may judge by past profits of their liberality in such respect.

These young ladies have been giving the Kirmess in various towns in Kentucky and Texas, meeting with marked success, but anxious to establish this style of entertainment, they occasionally give a worthy cause the advantage of personal sacrifice, which is the case in their proffer to present the Kirmess here for the benefit of charity. Miss Emily B. Perry and Miss Georgia Flack recognizing this saw an opportunity to add to the charity fund and have consented to be their aids to Misses Rousseau and Blocker, and with such a combination there is no reason to anticipate only a most attractive entertainment. The program is made up of numerous special features, consisting of marches, drills, dances, exhibiting national characteristics and songs. All serving to make the performance both unique and entertaining.

The stately minuet will be presented by eight prominent young ladies and gentlemen in colonial costume. The Kirmess often compared to a trip around the world, because of the different nations being minutely represented in their style of dress and entertainment. As such, unusual offer is made to lend aid to the needy, will not every one once appreciation by giving these young ladies "standing room only" at the opera house Monday and Tuesday nights, Aug. 19th and 20th. Price of admission 50 cents, with no extra charge for reserved seats. Tickets will be on sale at Calbreath's on Thursday.

A HOT CITY ELECTION.

The Contests for Councilmen Will be Settled Tomorrow.

The Democratic nominations for city councilmen in six of the wards of Hopkinsville will be made tomorrow in a primary election between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. In some wards there will be close and doubtful contests, while in others the result is clearly foreboded.

In the first ward Councilman Holland is a candidate for re-election and the ward seems to be well satisfied with him. There have been some efforts to get out another candidate, and it is said Dr. J. M. Dennis, who is absent in Virginia, will be voted for by those opposed to Mr. Holland.

In the second, Councilman Forbes is opposed by Mr. J. D. Ware and a hot contest is on between them. In the third, Councilman Steele and Mr. Dennis R. Perry are having a lively race with the excitement getting to a white heat.

In the fourth there seems to be but little opposition to Councilman Dalton. Nearly all of the voters have signed a call upon him, but there is some talk of an opposing man being put out against him, but who it will be could not be learned yesterday.

The fifth is the Republican stronghold and no candidates are after the nomination in that ward.

In the sixth, calls were circulated last week upon several gentlemen to run against Councilman Flack, but the opposition finally centered on Mr. Harry Hopper and the race will be run out between them.

In the 7th, Councilman Pool has two opponents, Mr. W. J. Withers from his own end of the ward and Ex. Alder members of the North end. There are 18 voters on North Main street who met and endorsed Mr. Campbell and asked both of the other candidates to let them have the councilman, but this was not agreed to and the contest will be fought out at the polls.

It is likely that some of the old members will be defeated, though a majority of them are pretty certain to pull through.

The Letter Carrier's Association of the United States, which numbers fourteen thousand members, has asked that Wednesday, November 20, be set aside as their special day at the Cotton States and International Exposition. It is probable that on that date nearly two thousand letter carriers from all over the Union will visit the Exposition.

All danger in the Indian country has passed.

Aquatic Sports Are Very Popular with Washingtonians.

Sturdy Men and Beautiful Women by the Score Seek Recreation on the Bosom of the Potomac After Their Day's Work.

Special Washington Letter.

Brown and beauty adorn the bosom of the Potomac every evening, for in the cool of the twilight and dusk the yachtsmen, the carmen and the canoeists are heading up the river for sport and recreation; and every young man has his best girl with him. There is a great deal more interest than usual this year in rowing, and the light little yachting parties are being given by the various boating clubs. As they left the little wharf of the boathouse, the captain's son was heard to remark: "We will not get the day for our wedding before we get back." She retorted: "Then we will never get back."

They never came back alive. Whether there was a final and irrevocable quarrel or not is only conjectured. As they were coming through the narrow passage between the stone piers of the bridge the boat capsized. He was an excellent swimmer. There was not enough water in the Potomac to drown him, unless he was seized with a cramp and that was not likely, for the water was warm. She sank and so did he, before they could reach shore. The distance from the boathouse was such that no rescuer could possibly reach them in time to save them. The little boat went floating down the stream. It was overturned, but would have sustained both with ease, if they had clung to it. One of her wrists was badly bruised, and generally she was wrenched from the boat. Her fingers were also bruised and the skin upon them broken. It is generally supposed that he deliberately permitted himself to sink with her. When their bodies were found his arm encircled her waist. She would not carry him, but they died together.

There is an oyster chow here which takes nightly rides on the Potomac. They row far above the Aqueduct bridge, and then float down past the boathouse, where they are met by the boatmen singing songs which float over the placid waters and are echoed from hill to hill, in chorus sweet and clear. All of them are young men and members of the choir of one of our leading churches. They sing snatches from opera, popular ballads and Georgian chorals. One Saturday evening they gave a rehearsal of all the music which was to be rendered in church on the morrow, and it was indescribably delightful. Their basso profundo sang the part of the king, in the cantata of Esther, and the tenor sang the songs of Mordecai. The song "More Wives for the King" was much enjoyed, coming as it did over the waters, rather than of the organ-like intonations of Whitney or Root.

It is not a bad thing to ramble for these young gentlemen and their lady friends to leisurely climb the Georgetown heights, and wander through Lover's Lane, an hour or two before sunset, when the moon is just appearing. The canoeists are having a delightful time with their light and airy craft, and many of the girls fearlessly and bravely tackle the water. They paddle as speedily as Pocahontas and the dusky maidens of the forest used to silently skim over these same waters. Rowing is claimed to be one of the most healthful of sports, and one row properly almost every muscle is brought into play. The regular and necessary motions strengthen the back, harden the limbs, and return to the arms are brought into active play, and accordingly strengthened. The general physical condition is thus made more healthy and strong, so that the fatiguing and lassitudinous heat of the summer can be the better withstood. There is danger, however, in this climate, when one returns to a row up the river with the skin aglow, as a result of the exercise which has been taken, that, sitting on the cool verandas or bedrooms of our homes, a severe cold may be taken. Indeed, some of our young men have thus carelessly stepped from robust health and strength into incurable disease. Tossing and massage should always follow a row-boat excursion.

In the early part of every season our brawny young men have blistered hands and well-browned faces; the blistered hands come from the oars, the browned arms and bronzed faces are caused by rays of the sun. They brave and beauty go together, and the blistering and burning are cheerfully endured because of the influence which they may have upon the mind of beauty, by inducing her to believe that her swain is a gallant and hardy young man. Many a Pyramus and Thisbe learn lessons of Cupid on the river. There is no better place on earth than upon the broad, smooth waters of the Potomac for boating, rowing and sailing. In every way that nature could aid the Potomac was perfected in the prehistoric days as a resort for lovers of aquatic sports. It is perfectly safe for the most frail craft to venture upon its bosom, because land breezes seldom ruffle it, and its current is so light that any able-bodied man or woman can easily row against it. The wooded shores of the upper Potomac are close to the city, and the stream flows between the historic hills of Virginia and the Palisades of Georgetown; so that it cannot be surpassed in picturesque beauty by any river in the world. The shores upon either hand present landscape subjects which the greatest of artists might be proud to be able to transfer to canvas. It is not a narrow body of water, but big enough for all; and it is unusually safe, because there are no rocks for a boat to run upon, save those bowlers, the Three Sisters, which are in plain sight, rearing their crests far above the water at high tide. The lonely ledges above Aqueduct bridge can be seen for a mile or more, and they are therefore not dangerous. The shores are sloping upwards so that landings can be easily and safely effected.

Moonlight rides upon the river are sometimes very exciting, and tragedies have occurred which have never been explained. On one occasion the son of a senator went rowing with a beautiful widow. It was rumored they were to be married. The lady denied the report to her friends. She even declared that she would never again receive the visits of the young gentleman. But he perished in his attentions, and she yielded to his entreaties. They went boating. As they left the little wharf of the boathouse, the captain's son was heard to remark: "We will not get the day for our wedding before we get back." She retorted: "Then we will never get back."

TELEPHONING THE MOON.

Electrician Holds That It Will Be Accomplished by Better Vibration.

Both Edison in America and Preece in England have long maintained that it is possible to establish on the earth a record of the electrical disturbances that take place on the sun. An electrician now holds that it is easily feasible to telephone to the moon. He bases his belief in the possibility of this communication on the well-known laws of other vibration. The ocean of other quivers to every touch. It binds the planets together with an iron hand, flexible yet firm, solid yet infinitely elastic. It is the ideal medium for the transmission of signals. When it moves, even to an extent inconceivably small, our sight is affected; we see. These other waves a eight minutes coming to us from the sun, traveling at the enormous velocity of one hundred and ninety-two thousand miles a second. It is possible to produce waves moving at this terrific speed by electrical means, as, for instance, in the telephone, which is actuated by infinitely small pulsations. When an iron mass is in the vicinity of these electrical vibrations a buzz or hum is given out. This noise may be distinctly heard in some systems of street lighting apparatus, where the current is transformed from a high to a low pressure. In accordance with this principle it is supposed to send electrical pulsations far out into the ether and have them act upon any metallic mass like iron with sufficient force to produce sound. If the moon contains iron, and this is reason to believe that it does, the striking upon it of these marvelous vibrations would give rise to a murmur of sound. It is suggested that a transmitting experiment could be carried out by means of a gigantic coil mounted vertically with its axis in line with the moon.

A RABBIT PARLIAMENT.

The Profitable Animal Baffles Law and Science.

A rabbit parliament was held in Australia. This was not a convention of the animals, but a great gathering of gentlemen who are engaged in their extermination. For four days, says the Philadelphia Record, representatives from every part of the colony held high debate over the animal's performances. But sets of parliament seem vain in this matter and science itself bankrupt. The New South Wales government at one period had more than three thousand men employed in killing rabbits, and it has erected fifteen thousand miles of rabbit-proof fencing. It once offered twenty-five thousand pounds sterling for a specific against rabbits, and though it received two thousand schemes, the too prolific bunny has triumphed over them all, and at the present moment the land department of New South Wales has one million acres of abandoned land, thrown up in consequence of the reckless march of the rabbit.

The rabbit parliament seems to have failed to produce any clear and striking results. A score of "infallible" specifics, ranging from arsenic to tobacco, have been tried, but without success. The delegates shake their heads. If the rabbit could be put into a profitable export the question would be solved, but this seems out of the question. The policy favored by the conference is that of strict quarantine, and only with rabbit-proof fences, transferring the duty of suppressing the rabbit from the state to private land-owners, and giving the landowner the possible help in carrying on the campaign against his furry and four-legged foe.

OLD WORLD AND NEW.

Asia Stands Still While Europe and America Push Forward.

The common phrases, the old world and the new world, have gained an application which would hardly have been given them had men known in the past what they know now, that America is, geologically considered, probably the oldest of the continents and that man perhaps inhabited the western hemisphere as early as he did the eastern. In view of this fact, says Lippincott's Magazine, it might not be amiss to suggest a different application of these phrases by giving to Asia the title of the old world and to Europe and America the title of the new world, leaving the remaining sections of the earth to fit into the division to which they logically belong.

For Asia is the static realm of mankind; Europe and America are the dynamic. Asia is at rest with the dead past; Europe and America are pushing forward into the living future. Asia, in its political conditions, its religion, its learning and its literature, its science and industry, remains in close touch with the world of three thousand years ago; Europe and America in all these conditions have left the old world ages behind them and are building for themselves a new world vitally distinct from that of ancient days.

He Will Succeed.

Like his brother of the north, the southern small boy is capable of manhood. A writer in the New York Home Journal says that upon her arrival in a southern town her cabman was a small boy, aged about nine. The cab had two seats, and the boy told her that if during her stay she wanted a carriage, she could get him any time by inquiring for Jackson's express—price six bits an hour.

"Are you Jackson?" I asked. "Yes, ma'am," said the expressman, politely, and with great dignity. Then, lapsing into boyishness, he added: "You see, this used to be our carriage. But papa died, and mamma isn't strong—and there's much money—and—something certainly filled the boy's throat, for his voice broke, and, hastily becoming a cabman again, he tightened the reins and indulged in a flourish of the whip. But after a little he turned about and added: "It's a real comfort, I think, to earn your living."

ELABORATE CEREMONY.

Description of the Baptism of the Son of a Czar.

Anointed with Oil Brought from Constantinople.—Dresses of the Godmothers.—The Child Done Its First Steps.

The young empress of Russia is superintending just now the preparation of a fetes, and all the world is interested to learn the details of an heir to the Russian throne.

Elaborate ceremonies always surround the birth of a royal child in Russia, perhaps more conspicuously than elsewhere. The christening, according to the ritual in the Greek church, must take place as soon as possible after the birth. The baby's christening robes, says the New York Sun, are marvels of the needleworker's art. The first godfather, who is always a high and mighty person, gives the child a gold cross inscribed with jewels, and the godmother provides the little white shirt which is used before the ceremony is completed. The occasion requires gifts from all persons connected with the court. These gifts are often the toys most likely to amuse a tiny infant, although many are suitable for a grown child. Other gifts may be lands or jewels.

At the christening the child is carried in the arms of its godmother to the church or chapel. A crowd of royalty and nobility, glittering in brilliant uniforms and gala toilets, all the boys of the church and stand grouped around the font. The priests wear magnificent robes with gold crosses, and sacred banners are borne before the priest, who carries a portrait of Christ or the Virgin Mary.

The godfathers give the priest nine candles, which are lighted and set around the font. The priest incenses the godfathers and godmothers and consecrates the water with many ceremonies. The priest then, in a low voice, gives the child's name, and the godmothers, each one bearing a lighted wax taper. The name of the child is given in writing to the priest, who puts the paper on the image which he holds on the child's breast, meanwhile saying a prayer. When the priest says if the child fears the devil and his works, the godmothers turn their backs to the font to show their horror and aversion to the question, and answer "Yes." They again face the font, and the priest takes the child, which is quite naked, and holding it by the head, he says his thumb and finger stop the sacred oil three times in the water, pronouncing the words: "I baptize thee in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

The chrism, or baptismal unction, which is called the seal of the gift of the Holy Ghost, immediately follows baptism. In performing this ceremony the priest anoints the child with holy oil, on the eyes, in order that it may see only good on the ears, that it may hear only what is pure in the mouth, that it may speak as becomes a Christian; on the hand, that it may do no wrong, and on the feet, that it may tread only the path of virtue. At the end of this ceremony the shirt, which the godmother has provided, is put on the child by the priest. The priest says: "There are as clean as clear from original sin as this shirt; thou art baptized, thou art sanctified, thou art pure, in the name of the Trinity." The cross, which has been given by the godfather, the child is under obligations to wear all its life. If this cross be not found upon the child at death, the priest says to the godmothers, the child may not have Christian burial, even though he be the son of a hundred kings. A particular sin is also assigned to the child, whose image he is charged to cherish with special devotion.

Oil, or chrism, which is used at royal baptisms, consecration, and consecration of churches, is prepared with elaborate ceremony. There is a copper vessel, overlaid with gold and called the alabaster, in which is kept the original oil sent from Constantinople, when Christianity was introduced into Russia. A few drops are taken to prepare the chrism and are replaced with other oil, so the quantity never decreases. Wine, roses, lavender, balsams and spices are mixed with the oil.

Forty days after the birth of the child, its mother, the empress, is crowned, and the infant is received visibly into the church by the giving of its first sacrament. When the royal gates are opened during mass, the deacon appears in the church and the baby is carried to the steps, and the priest, coming forward, puts a drop of wine into its mouth with a spoon, saying: "The servant of God, christened in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

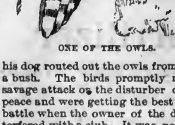

On the day the child does its first steps the empress, surrounded by the children of St. Petersburg. These are ordinary ones, of course, not a bit like the royal baby, who is in a white leather, embroidered with gold.

QUEER JERSEY OWLS.

Said to Be the First of Their Kind Found in This Country.

Two owls were captured in New Jersey, a few weeks ago which are both bird experts. According to Robert Rae, of Newark, who has been studying birds for nearly forty years, they are the first of their kind found in this country. He visited the Museum of Natural History in New York, but failed to find either specimen like them or a description that fitted them. The bird that resembles them most closely is the hawk or Arctic owl (Burnia ovalis).

The owls, which are the Hawk, or Sun, were captured by a man living at Jackson, N. J., late in April. While hunting in the swamps near his house, he his dog routed out the owls under a bush. The birds promptly made a savage attack on the disturber of their peace and were getting the best of the battle when the owner of the dog interfered with a club. It was not until he had beaten them into insensibility that they gave up the fight.

The birds, which are male and female, measure seventeen inches from the top of the head to the tip of the tail and thirty-two inches from the tip of their wings. The feathers are of a peculiar downy nature, like those of very young birds. The wings and back are barred with white and black, the white stripes presenting a mottled appearance. The breast is of a peculiar cream yellow, and the feathers are very thick. The head is small for the body and the legs and feet are thickly feathered to the toes. Unlike the majority of owls, they slept at night and were active in the daytime. Their habits and their general character, except for their marking, closely resemble those of the hawk owl.

Hawk owls are found in the polar regions and in the northern parts of America and Asia, but are extremely rare south of the Canadian line, and have been found in the states only after several winters. They are from fifteen to seventeen inches in length, with a comparatively small head and light yellow beak. The plumage, which is thicker than that of the majority of owls, is of a dark spotted brown above and light striped below. Their bodies are fringed with delicate downy feathers. There are no visible ears, and the legs are feathered to the toes. Like the owls captured at Jackson, these birds are great fighters, often attacking animals twice its size. It searches for its food during the day, and sleeps at night. Contrary to the usual custom of owls, it builds its nest near the summit of a tall tree, instead of in a hollow in the trunk or among the branches. Its flight is swift, and it frequently follows and overtakes flocks of smaller birds.

STRANGE ACCIDENT.

How the Sun Fired Off a Gun and Killed a Man.

The story runs that a man was found lying dead upon a road, his life having been destroyed by a bullet discharged from a gun lying near. The circumstances of the matter positively proved that the man could not have been the victim of suicide, and, therefore, the only alternative was that he had been murdered. An acquaintance was charged with the crime, but absolute proof of his guilt was not forthcoming. One of the parties engaged in the case was so far interested in the peculiar facts of the death as to seek a different solution to the affair than that accepted by popular belief. The result of his observation and deduction was very curious. The rays of the sun had vibrated in at the window of the apartment in which the man had encountered his end, and had been concentrated directly upon the explosive chamber of the gun, by which means sufficient heat had been engendered to warm the cap and powder, and cause a discharge. The gun having been quite inadvertently placed in such a way as to point to the unfortunate man, he received the bullet while he lay placidly sleeping, no doubt meeting with instant death.

INCREDIBLE QUICKNESS.

The incredible quickness with which a photograph is taken by the flash light is illustrated by the fact that Lord Raeburn has succeeded in photographing a soap bubble, a process which occupies between the two-hundredth and three-hundredth part of a second.

HIS KINGDOM GRABBED.

Baron Harden-Hickey's Island Occupied by England.

Was Queen Victoria Jealous of the Baron's Success as a Monarch and Colonizer?—His and Fall of the Kingdom of Hickey.

There are well-defined rumors floating around in diplomatic and other circles that the home-made island kingdom of Baron Harden-Hickey, away down in the South Atlantic ocean, has been grabbed up by England, says the New York Herald.

The rumor does not state whether or not a battle was fought, and nothing whatever has been heard of King Hickey's standing army, whose name is said to have been Jones. It is possible that the standing army took to its heels in the face of the tremendous naval demonstration which England always makes when she confiscates little kingdoms. At any rate, the story is that the kingdom of Hickey is no more, and that the royal cross of St. George floats over the island.

By all the laws of nations the kingdom of Hickey should still belong to Hickey. He saw it first. He planted his flag there a year ago and proclaimed himself monarch of all in sight, whether approved or unapproved.

Does England want the kingdom for a coaling station or is she jealous? Here is the history of the kingdom of Hickey. You can read it and form your own opinion.

In the first place, Baron James A. Harden-Hickey is a son-in-law of the Standard Oil millionaire, John D. Rockefeller. He was born in California forty-one years ago, has been a Parisian editor, was exiled from France on account of a rather badly drawn cartoon, and came to the United States.

It was on one of his many voyages that the baron discovered his future kingdom. He took a map of the world and ran his finger across the equator into the South Atlantic ocean. There, in latitude 30 degrees 30 minutes and longitude 30 degrees 30 minutes west, you will find a speck not quite the size of a pinhead and labeled with "Trinidad." There were no inhabitants when Hickey discovered the island, and, consequently, no laws. The baron said to himself: "Lo! I will start a kingdom on my own account."

Accordingly, Baron Harden-Hickey came to the United States and began to formulate his plans. In the spring of last year the baron raised his flag and proclaimed himself ruler of the island of Trinidad. His agents in the United States began to rally recruits around the royal standard. Currency and postage stamps were printed, laws were made and a navy was secured in the shape of a rolling and bowling old bark, which when not employed in the carriage of the baron's solitary port, carried the mails over to Brazil.

It was a halcyon sort of an existence. The royal subjects did not have much to do except fish. No ships but those in distress ever stopped there. Those that stopped were more distressed than ever over the circumstance. King Hickey was a very kind and considerate ruler to pattern the kingdom on the principles of the Order of Chevaliers. He instituted the "Order of Chevaliers" for his subjects, and ordered a supply of gray golden crosses, with which to recompense letters, arts, science and industries.

There were not many letters to recompense. They came about once every two months from the mainland. As for arts, there was very little to be observed, except the art of digging bait and prospecting for turtles' eggs. Science was at a like discount, and as for industry, it was a very inferior one. But the kingdom waxed happy for all that, and almost everybody wore a cross, even if he had nothing else to wear.

The next news from the little kingdom of Hickey will be awaited with anxious interest by many people in New York, and the work of procuring recruits for the self-made king which has been going on in this city will be stopped until some definite information is received.

Aside from his monarchial undertaking, Baron Harden-Hickey is a most interesting person. He is a descendant of one of the families that fled with the king of the Netherlands to the island of Jersey. During his life he has been poet, novelist, journalist, duelist, soldier and adventurer. He has felt the pangs of poverty, though at present he is very wealthy. He was educated in the college of Jesus at Namur, Belgium, and studied law at the University of Louvain.

Three years ago, while in New York, he met and married Miss Annie Flagler. It is probable that England, if she really takes the island, bases her claim on a previous colonization which occurred over a hundred years ago.

Judicial primary election Saturday August 31, in all the voting precincts. Keep the date well in mind and talk up votes for Judge Morrow.

The Hardin-Bradley debate Aug. 23 will have to be at the fair grounds, if the crowd overflows the court house. The tabernacle cannot be secured and the grand stand at the fair grounds is about the only chance left to seat 2000 or 3000 people.

W. H. Ragland was nominated for representative in Jefferson county over three candidates in the first ballot. A single gold standard resolution was tabled by 46 to 15 and the nominee was not instructed in the senatorial race. His opponents all announced themselves against Blackburn while Ragland refused to commit himself.

A Paducah dispatch says: "Out of fourteen senators and legislators from the First congressional district, Blackburn will receive twelve votes sure. Col. H. H. Hobson, a staunch advocate of silver at 16 to 1, will elect representative without opposition. The McCracken goldbugs have surrendered the fight, as the county is against them."

A Jefferson county convention of Democrats voted down a goldbug interpretation of the party platform Saturday by 45 to 16 and tabled an endorsement of Cleveland and Carlisle by the same vote. A reference to the map of Kentucky will show that Jefferson is the county in which Louisville is situated.

With all their boisterous claims, the Linn followers in this county have not made any serious inroads into Judge Morrow's vote, unless people talk one way and vote another. In only one precinct in the county is the opposition at all formidable and a few men are doing all of the Linn talking in that one. In this city where Linn was supposed to be strongest, the feeling for the home candidate is growing stronger all of the time. The Linn men concede Morrow a majority of 1000, but it will be nearer 1500 in the county.

The following editorial from that staunch gold standard paper, the New York Tribune, will give an idea of the prosperous condition of the people of Germany under the gold standard:

"Berlin is eaten up by worry, and they are trying the most flagrant wagers and sending them to jail in squads and platoons, but they are too numerous to be uprooted altogether and hold a strong grasp on all classes there. Although the country is so proud and powerful, it is really poor. The income of the aristocracy is hardly ever up to their needs and pretensions, and for the other orders of society they have a constant struggle to pay their taxes and make ends meet. The country has economic, industrial and social perils to encounter, as well as the menace of outside armies and alliances. But Europe generally is in a like condition—margined to money lenders, crushed down by war taxes, infiltrated with feudal ideas, impelling large numbers of the most expensive sort of people to try to live without earning anything. Time will enforce some sort of corrective, but in the meantime the situation is oppressive, bringing grief mainly to the teacher and his kind and plunging the rest of society into deeper and deeper difficulties. The happiest children of the fatherland are those who have emigrated, especially those who have come hither, embracing the protection of the single-headed Republican eagle instead of the double-headed Imperial one."

Joe Blackburn is still getting votes at the ratio of about 16 to 1.

W. I. Babb has been nominated for Governor of Iowa by the Democrats.

The Russellville Herald has put on a new dress and is greatly improved in appearance.

Hon. A. C. Tompkins, who will be the democratic nominee in the Owensboro district, has come out in a card declaring for Blackburn. The primary will be this week.

The President now has another opportunity to appoint his secretary of the treasury to the supreme bench, a position he is fitted by nature to adorn. As a financier Mr. Carlisle has been a failure, but he would make a great judge.

United States Minister Jas. A. McKenzie, will sail from Peru today and will arrive in this county in about a month, to remain for some time on a leave of absence. His friends who have not seen him for two years; will accord him a cordial welcome.

In Union County three candidates are running for the legislature, two of them for silver and the other against it. The silver men should at once get one of the bimetallicists off and not permit a goldbug to slip in, as happened in Ballard county the other day.

The first district papers are giving Congressman Hendrick the grand guy over the fact that the legislative district in which he lives has just nominated a free silver man for representative. This in the face of the fact that Mr. Hendrick recently stated in an interview that there were not many silver men in his part of the county.

Judge T. J. Morrow.

Grand Rivers Herald.

We are pleased to announce in this issue Judge T. J. Morrow, of Christian county, as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge for the 8th Judicial district comprising the counties of Christian, Coloway, Lyon and Trigg. Judge Morrow is one of the widely known and popular men in Western Kentucky. He lived for many years in Caldwell county and practiced law there very successfully. He moved to Christian county and with the exception of five years while he was engaged in the coal business he has been practicing attorney. He was elected county judge of Christian and served with honor to himself and profit to the county. Since the end of his career as county judge he has been engaged in law practice. He owns a fine farm near Hopkinsville, but a short drive from his Hopkinsville law office. He is one of the most popular men in Christian county, and when the democrats desire to put their strongest man out they get Judge Morrow and he always polls not only the Democratic vote but a generous number of votes from the ranks of his political opponents. He is a man of fine character, unimpeachable integrity, unquestioned honesty and of great personal magnetism. His strength in his home county where he is best known is of sufficient evidence as to his ability as an attorney and high standing as a citizen. He is into the race a worthy man and a formidable opponent to the gentleman from Coloway, who is the only other candidate in the field. We commend Judge Morrow as being worthy of the high honor that he seeks.

Resolutions of Fiscal Court.

Whereas, we the magistrates of Christian county assembled, having learned of the death of J. A. B. Ratliff, delinquent tax collector for this county, be it Resolved, that in the death of Mr. Ratliff the community has lost a good citizen, esteemed for his integrity, honesty, and great moral worth, and that our county has lost an efficient and valued officer, whose duties were at all times promptly and kindly discharged by the deceased.

Resolved that we tender to his bereaved family our sincerest sympathy in the hour of their bereavement, and as a mark of our regard for his inestimable worth as a citizen and officer, and of our regard for his memory, we ask that these resolutions be published in the local papers of this city and that the clerk of this court spread the same upon his order book and furnish a copy to the family of the deceased.

The Colored School Building.

The colored public school will begin the first of September with four new rooms added to the building and the following list of teachers:

Prof. A. H. Payne, principal; assistants Mrs. Nora L. Payne, Mrs. Jennie L. Pool, Mrs. Lottis E. Dade, Mrs. M. F. Morgan, Miss Kittie Kinchloe, Miss Millie Davis.

The council recently appropriated $1,500 to build a much needed addition to the Second street building. The number of rooms will be increased from 6 to 10 and eight teachers will be employed, an increase of two. The building is being pushed ahead rapidly by Forbes & Bro. the contractors, and will be ready by the first of next month. The four rooms are in front of the old building, separated by an eight-foot hall.

A Confused Account of the Latest Hap Penings Tarsely Told for Busy Readers.

The Clarksville Times has this: "On the incoming train last Saturday night arrived a couple who registered at the Hotel Elkton as 'S. J. Buckner and wife Louisville,' says the Elkton Progress. Clerk Perkins at once assigned them a room and the porter showed them up. Two hours later, which was about 12 o'clock the man came down to Clerk Perkins room, awoke him, informing him that the woman and himself wished to get married. County Clerk Reeves was called up, the license procured and in the presence of a few witnesses at 12:30 Sunday morning Judge Bristow tied the knot and pocketed the fee. In answer to legal questions put by the clerk the woman said that her name was Mrs. Mary McIntyre, that she was a divorced widow and of legal age. The man answered that his name was S. J. Buckner, and he was of legal age and a divorced widower. Sabbath morning the bride and groom had their breakfast served them in the bridal chamber and at 9 o'clock were escorted by Livertynal Bowling in a carriage to Guthrie where they said they wished to go to take the train for Hyges Springs, Tenn. Such is romance on the full moon.

Tom Hunt killed his ten year old boy accidentally at Mud River Mines, in Muhlenberg county, Thursday evening. Hunt was dumping coal into the railroad cars, and the boy was playing in the car, and the father completely covered the child with coal before he knew it. The child lived about ten minutes after it was taken from the car.

The prohibition vote at Glasgow was certified to as 136 wets and 206 drys, after Monday's election. The drys proceeded to jubilate, but when the official count was verified it was found that the figures were reversed and that the wets had won by 74 majority. A legal contest may be the result.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allures feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Cud, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. OSOON.

Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KITCHNER.

Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ANCKER, M. D.

111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have a few of our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the use of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

The Marvellous Development of a Country of Great Possibilities—How the New State of Rhodesia Was Formed.

Special South Africa Letter.

When the world was new, and human efforts and endeavors far less developed and robust than now, the highest civilization to which man had attained had its seat in northeastern Africa. But it fell into decadence, and its complete obliteration was hastened by the advent of Mohammedanism with its pernicious slave traffic, savage wars, and poverty and devastating wars. And so, in the lapse of centuries, the last

this country, Germany has a strip along the west coast, while for many years Portugal has had a nominal control over a considerable territory along the east coast, including the Zambesi delta. Neither Germany nor Portugal has shown much aptitude in successful African colonization. Neither has made much headway in gaining either the fear or respect of the native tribes—indeed it is asserted that both pay tribute to certain native chieftains for the honor and privilege of airing their colors over designated territories.

On the other hand, wherever the British standard has been planted, evidences of civilization have at once become manifest. From Table Bay, with his face to the north, the British pioneer has steadily moved onward, Grakuland west, wherein are located the famous Kimberley diamond mines, Matabele and Mashonaland. This is after the other, he absorbed Bechuanaland, Pondoland, Basutoland, and finally Zululand, the dominions of the fierce and heady Zulus. Cetywayo, and his last exploit consists in having created a new state from the two conquered native territories, Matabele and Mashonaland. This infant state has been christened Rhodesia. This name was given in recognition of the services of Sir Cecil Rhodes, who has been the driving spirit, the life and soul of all the negotiations, native wars, treaties and traffickings which culminated in its creation.

This man Rhodes affords a living example of what push, perseverance and fair ability, combined with opportunity, may accomplish. His level of knowledge is not more than ten or twelve years ago, when he was plain Cecil Rhodes, miner and speculator, at the Kimberley diamond fields. His level head and indomitable energy served him well then, and he soon became a millionaire, retired from active commercial life, entered politics and was elected to the Cape parliament. He at once became a leading figure in that body, rose rapidly in favor and public popularity, when about four years ago he was made premier of Cape Colony, which position he still retains.

He has made many expeditions to the far north interior, and since being prime minister he has constantly used his powerful influence in furtherance of British interests in South Africa. Two years ago Queen Victoria bestowed upon him a knighthood in recognition of these services, but the perpetration of his name in a state is the most to be envied of all his honors.

Rhodesia, as before stated, is composed of the two native territories, Matabele and Mashonaland. The former, Matabele, was for many years under the despotic rule of the renowned Lobengula, the most powerful monarch as the most cruel of modern African monarchs. With his army of 75,000 thoroughly disciplined troops, he was troubled. Had his army been equipped with modern implements of war the black of Rhodesia would doubtless have been considerably deferred. It is definitely postponed. But like the long dark procession of South African monarchs, including the ill-fated Cetywayo, which had gone before him, the haughty Lobengula was overcome, submitted to the pale-face, accepted the sword and annuity of rum and tobacco, and very soon afterwards completed the example by suddenly dying.

Rhodesia lies entirely within the tropical belt, extending north from the tropic of Capricorn to the Zambesi river, bordered on the east by a strip of alleged Portuguese territory, which separates it from the Indian ocean.

and on the west it infringes on the possessions of the British South African company. The capital of Rhodesia is Salisbury, a town already claiming considerable pretensions. It is pleasantly situated near the eastern slope of the Fura mountains and is in touch with the world by means of the telegraph wire. There are other towns and numerous mining camps in the new state. The country is mostly high and undulating, and the climate, though tropical, is much tempered by this circumstance, and no valid reason exists why a white man should not enjoy as perfect health in Rhodesia as in any other part of South Africa. Game in every variety peculiar to Africa may be found in this region.

While South Africa offers rare inducement for farming and stock raising this fact alone could never have led to the phenomenal development of a country so remote and little known to the world.

The discovery of the fabulous diamond deposits in Grakuland west, back in the early days of the world and brought to the scene armies of hardy, adventurous men from every quarter thereof. But when hundreds of square miles of ground had been overturned and searched, and the sparkling gems had been traced to the parent mine, where Kimberley has since sprung up, many disappointed miners organized prospecting parties and moved to the north.

To more diamonds were found, but soon rich discoveries of gold were reported. These were principally located within the territory of the Boer state, the transvaal republic. Being a long distance from the seaboard, and no other mode of transportation for food supplies or machinery than by the slow ox team, these gold mines were somewhat slow in development. But capital was soon attracted, and the construction of railroads began.

Now these gold mines are reached by rail both from Cape Town and Natal, and Johannesburg, the seat of the principal mining industry, which ten years ago was a desert waste, is now a flourishing city of more than 50,000 inhabitants, and her adjacent mines are yielding an output of about $5,000,000 worth of gold per annum. But the thirst for gold is insatiable; still northward, with rifle and pick, the prospectors have pressed, following the enchanted lead of the Boer and the desert and across mountain range, into Mashonaland and Matabele, where it is declared the true and original Eldorado has been found. That most marvelous deposits of gold have been located in this region there is no denying; but the rich yielding capacity of these discoveries cannot be estimated until proper mining machinery has been brought to operate upon them. At present the new discoveries have been the means of giving to the world of nations a new state, Rhodesia.

VIRGINIA'S SWELLING TOAD.

A Queer Batrachian That Strongly Resembles a Fish.

The wonder of the genus batrachia and the greatest natural curiosity of the United States is the swelling toad, a semi-aquatic creature known to naturalists as Bombinator. It is occasionally met with from New York city to Jacksonville, Fla., but is most common along the coasts of Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina. When in its natural state the "swell toad" is about the size of a large bullfrog, but looks more like a fish than it does like either a frog or a toad. He is about six inches in length and has the curious faculty of being able to swell to the size of a large football, in which case his legs, tail and head are scarcely visible. Irritation appears to be the chief factor in causing the enormous creature to inflate air until they swell almost to bursting. The bellies of both the males and females are nearly pure white, and are covered with spines, which give that portion of their anatomy the appearance of a well-ripened "jimson" burr. Persons who understand the "swell toad" and know what an irritable little rascal he is, catch him and rub the spines on his belly until he swells up until he is utterly helpless. Another curious point about the creature is that as long as he is kept on his back he is unable to expel the air so as to reduce the swelling.

Course of the Missouri.

Michael Vincent, a professional engineer and draughtsman of Chicago, Ill., has had the happy thought to plot the course of the Missouri in 1804, as laid down in the manuscript journals of Lewis and Clark, at least for the lower portion of the river. A few blue prints of this map are in private circulation. The course of the Missouri is of considerable interest and no small hydrographic value, inasmuch as it includes the United States survey of 1893 and the country south of April 1804, and thus exhibits the changes in the stream at two intervals of approximately forty-five years. The antics of this slightly curving river are almost incredible; this, one who should attempt to follow literally in the track of Lewis and Clark in their ascent of the Missouri river, would find it a most interesting and somewhat hazardous journey. The tendency of the river on the whole at this particular point has been to straighten itself, and for this reason the gainer of the operation at the expense of Nebraska.

MALAGASY COOKERY.

Great Care Taken in Preparing the Simple Food.

Cooking being an art, every race has a style of its own. The Malagasy, like the gentle Hindu, knows how to prepare his meals, says the London Telegraph. It is not boiled to a mash and eaten with rice, as the natives are sometimes puffed, but, covered with a proper sufficiency of water, is carefully treated until the grains are swollen fit to burst and yet remain firm, intact and rather mealy. The manioc root is an easier dish to prepare. It is sometimes served boiled, as yams and sweet potatoes, and at other times cold porridge. Native coffee they use in excellent form, but, alas, they look to the brewing of that from start to finish if you desire a drinkable cup. Poultry and game are eaten fresh, and are cooked with a clear, white, rather clean trick of dipping the dead animals in boiling water, which enables them to pluck them easily and quickly. The preparation for transport comes later. There is no lack of variety at a Malagasy table, but all the same, you miss the wheaten flour bread, sugar and condiments we have adopted with rice, fowl, manioc and eggs. The staple food is bunch grass, which when dried burns fiercely, and settles into a glowing ember that gives off a deal of heat. All the cooking is done on earthen hearths, and the roasting, boiling and steaming is all done in pots. The grass being slightly aromatic, the food is as agreeable as that of a hardwood fire.

"INCURABLE."

We know that it sounds quackish to talk about the Electropoise curing incurable diseases, but bear in mind the fact that is the old treatment which has pronounced the case incurable. We do not make the claim, that we can cure all so-called incurable diseases, but we do maintain with all earnestness that a case pronounced incurable by your family physician, is a splendid field for the operation of the Electropoise. It may be just the treatment necessary, and is quite likely to be so. If it fails, this is no argument against the "Poise," but in such a case, the fact of the physician's statement is proven to be true. But many's the patient who has been given up by his physician who has again received life through treatment of the Electropoise.

He Will Be Misled.

Our former invaluable friend, the horse, that looked on the blyde as the forerunner of his coming doom, will doubtless feel that doom sealed by the reports of the race of horseless carriages in France. The steed of the future, for uses both of pleasure and labor, will doubtless be an automation, driven by electricity and managed by a touch. Yet with all the advantages of such a system there will be something missed even by the unsentimental in the honest affection and unquestioning loyalty of our dumb living servants—Baltimore American.

Do You Want to Stop Tobacco?

YOU CAN BE CURED WHILE USING IT.

The habit of nursing tobacco grows on a man as much as the habit of smoking. Tobacco causes cancer of the mouth and stomach, dyspepsia, loss of sleep, nervous debility, congestion of the retina, and various other evils, and it is a potent cause of impotence, even to the extent of heart failure. Tobacco is a deadly poison, and it is a deadly poison to the body and mind.

A SOUND LIVER MAKES A WELL MAN.
 Are you bilious, constipated or troubled with jaundice, sick headache, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, coated tongue, dyspepsia, indigestion, hot dry skin, pain in back and between the shoulders, or any of these symptoms, your liver is out of order, and your blood is slowly being poisoned, because your blood does not get properly. Herbine will cure any disorder of the liver, stomach or bowels. It has no equal as a liver medicine. Price 75 cents. For sale in trial bottles at R. C. Hardwick's drug store.

If you have anything to tell the public, do it in a telling manner.

My little boy when two years of age was taken very ill with bloody diarrhea. I was advised to get Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I procured part of a bottle. I carefully read the directions and gave it accordingly. He was very low, but slowly and surely he began to improve, gradually recovered, and is now as stout and strong as ever. I feel sure it saved his life. I can never praise the remedy half its worth. I am sorry everyone in the world does not know how good it is.—Mrs. Lina S. Hines, Grahamsville, Marion Co., Florida. FOR STORING MILLIONS.
 Powerful Safe Now Being Made for the New York Clearing House.

What is pronounced the strongest vault in the world is now in process of construction by a New York corporation of safe-makers. It is destined for the clearing house, and is designed upon approved plans, to meet the requirements of the associated banks of the city. In it from time to time will be stored an amount of treasure that transcends all ordinary dreams of avarice, and makes the actual and fabled fortunes of the world pale into insignificance.

It is an interesting process to watch the construction of one of these huge vaults.

money boxes. They are set up, says the New York Herald, with infinite pains; built piece by piece until they arrive at their finished state. They are fitted, tested and cemented with oil until found perfect. Then, with as great pains, they are dismembered and carried in sections to the point of destination, where they are again set up for final use.

Of course it would be more economical for the safe-makers to transport the vaults entire—if they could—after they are first set up. The difficulty naturally rests in the great weight of the structures. Even in the dismembered form it will be a difficult matter to transport the fragments of the clearing house vault from the manufactory, at South River Governor street, to its destination in Cedar street, near Broadway.

There are six doors, for instance. Three of them are estimated to weigh 15,000 pounds apiece. The other three are trifles, and weigh scarcely more than 7,500 pounds each. There are other portions proportionately heavy.

One may be inferred from the fact that the total weight of the vault is about 571,400 pounds. Its total dimensions are 34 feet 4 inches wide, 16 feet 10 1/2 inches deep and 11 feet 6 1/2 inches in height. It is divided into three equal compartments.

Under the old methods of construction a bank vault rested upon a foundation of stone and concrete, six or eight feet in thickness, to guard against tunneling. Not so with the vault of today. The immense structure for the clearing house will rest on piers and arches of masonry. This will afford great access for the watchmen to pass beneath the vault and inspect it from below as well as on either side. This method, it is believed, will afford greater protection than if the steel room rested upon solid earth or masonry.

 An Electrical Device Which May Put a "Long-Face Want."

A small storage battery of about eight small cells is carried on the wheel or in the pocket, and a body wire leading from it to the terminal points on the back of the cap. The lamp is front is detachable in like manner, and weighs only about one and one-half ounces. In this simple manner a true search light is obtained, because the light is always focused in the same direction that the rider looks, and being on the view of the cap the eyes are protected from the light, which lights up the way more satisfactorily, and will undoubtedly do much to the safety and therefore to the pleasure of bicycle riding at night.

A searchlight of this character, says the Bicycle World, should be adapted to many uses besides bicycle lights, such as mining, policemen's use, night driving, night watchmen, band concerts, brakemen, sailors, night fishing, subterranean work of all kinds, inspection of sewers and waterways and many other uses where it is quite necessary that both hands be left free for action.

French Divorce Statistics.
 Divorce has been legal in France now for eight years. The first year the number granted was 1,700; the second, 4,000; in 1894 it was 8,000; the total for eight years is 40,000. The working classes supply the largest proportion, 60 per cent.; the peasants the smallest, 7 per cent. Incompatibility of temper was the cause in 55,000 cases. The most common time for suit is the fifth year after marriage. Geographically, Paris heads the list.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mr. O. D. Thompson, who has for some time been with J. R. Kitchen, has resigned his place and accepted a position with Thompson & Meador. Mr. Thompson has an extensive acquaintance over Christian and adjoining counties and will command a large trade for any house with which he may be connected. He will prove a valuable man for his employers.

Mrs. M. D. Syert, of Christian county, Ky., was in the city yesterday and rented the Whitfield place, corner of University and Main streets. She will move to Clarksville August 15 to educate her daughters and will take a few select boarders.—Leaf-Chronicle.

Judge Morrow returned Saturday night from a trip through Calloway and Lyon counties, where he met with much encouragement in his race. He returned yesterday to complete a canvass of the lower counties.

Mrs. Bettie S. Wilkins, of Bowling Green, has returned home after a week's visit to her daughter, Mrs. H. L. McPherson.

Judge L. C. Linn attended the Baptist Association at Little River last week and spent several days in that county.

Mrs. Wm. Cowan, of Jolet, Ill., is visiting the family of her mother, Mrs. C. V. Phelps.

Miss Julia Reed, of Gracy, passed through the city Friday, en route to Dawson.

Mr. Jno. T. Evans, of Trenton, was in the city yesterday, en route to Dawson.

Mr. W. S. Davidson and family spent Sunday with friends in Todd county.

Mrs. Jas. F. Clark, of Eddyville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Laub.

Mannington.

Our Hill, Ky., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Nanvick Keith's school is now in session at this place, and having a good attendance. With Mrs. Keith for her teacher, of course predict success, as she is a teacher of experience and ability, she knows just what to do in a school room and has a good record in a school room for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Sick, of Morton's Gap, visited the family of Mrs. Jesse Denton, last week.

Mr. B. E. Barker made a business trip to Dawson last week.

Little Charlie Francis, who was bitten by a snake last week, is convalescent.

The country is now flooded with stock buyers, but owing to the unusually low prices being offered the farmers are not selling.

Mr. Will Coleman, of Madisonville, was circulating in this vicinity last week, asking the prices of cattle and sheep.

Rev. Crowe will deliver his farewell sermon next Sunday at Coal Chapel. He has preached to that congregation for the past two years and by his untiring efforts and zealous work has gained the love, respect and confidence of the entire community.

The party given at Mr. R. B. Keith's Wednesday evening is reported to have been a delightful affair.

Mr. Luke Crick is very ill of typhoid fever.

Mr. Sam Almon visited the family of Dixie Williams last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Williams are visiting Mr. Dixon Williams.

The whooping cough is raging among the kids now.

The people of Mannington are much elated now that they have a new postmaster.

Miss Elsie Brasher has returned home after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Harry Silver, at Pembroke.

We are on the market for bargains and we will buy any stock of goods that comes in in our line. If price is right we have the cash to plunk down for the stuff if cheap, no matter where or how much.

WE OFFER NO BAITS

and no special sales, but OUR PRICES are always below market prices. We sell everything at CUT PRICES. That is the kind of people we are.

HERE AND THERE.

Mr. O. D. Thompson, who has been in the furniture establishment of Jno. R. Kitchen for a year or more, has severed his connection with that house and accepted a position with Thompson & Meador. Messrs. Thompson & Meador have opened a furniture store adjoining their hardware store—the old Geo. O. Thompson furniture stand—and have engaged Mr. O. D. Thompson to take charge. They do not place much of a furniture store adjoining their hardware store, and besides he is an industrious and painstaking in his business, accommodating, affable and strictly honest in his dealings. In a few days he will have received and opened up a very large line of furniture—anything from a kitchen set to a fine parlor suit and proposes to "do" anything in his line, either in style or price. The opening will take place about the first of September. Mr. Thompson invites his numerous friends and acquaintances to call and see him, and assures everybody that fair dealing, low prices and elegant goods will rule at the house he takes charge of.

WANTED—Energetic man or woman to sell Mrs. Shaeffer's splendid new "Pan-Cat Gridiron" to families in each county in Kentucky. It BAKES THE CAKE. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send $1 for sample and liberal terms. References required. Address: Kirk & Grimes Co., Lexington, Ky.

Rev. J. W. King, the new pastor of the C. P. church, was recently pastor of a church at Cookeville Tenn., and the press of that city, makes the following pleasant reference to his departure:

"Two years ago Bro. King was elected to the pastorate of this church, and since that time he has ministered to its wants and necessities. He came among us a stranger, but leaves us as a beloved member of the family circle. His departure is a great loss to this congregation. He is an accomplished christian minister, full of love and meekness of the blessed master. A character without spot or blemish pure and devoted to the cause. The prayers and best wishes of all our people go with Bro. King."

We have held you in suspense nearly long enough. Look out for something starting in a few days at Wallis grocery, 211 Main street. Merritt's old stand.
